If you are active in the infrastructure and construction industry and doing business in the United States, you'll want to learn how to avoid the common problems of U.S. commercial construction law and litigation so that you can make sure you get paid under the terms of your contract.

Why should you participate? You will:

- Learn about mechanics liens, labour and material payment bonds,
- Understand the Freedom of Information Act, dispute resolution and other clauses
- Gain more knowledge about standard contract forms, contractor licensing, and various claims
- Have access to a downloadable detailed course manual, over 250 pages that you will be able to consult over and over again.

Speaker:

- Edward J. Sheats, Construction Law Attorney, Sheats and Associates

Moderator:

- Marie-Claude Erian, Sector Advisor, Export Development Canada (EDC)

Cost: You are requested to pay a $50 fee. There will be no refunds once you have registered. You will receive an email invoice.

You will be encouraged to ask your questions throughout the 2-hour session that will be presented in English. Questions can be asked in either English or in French. A transcript of this event will be available in both French and English post-event. The event itself will not be archived.
