INFRASTRUCTURE IS KEY TO CANADA'S ECONOMIC RECOVERY

The construction sector is ready to build. The time to approve infrastructure projects is now.

Investing in infrastructure is a proven way to stimulate the economy, create immediate employment, and improve the economic and environmental quality of life for all Canadians. In order for the construction sector to continue to drive Canada's economic engine, approvals for projects need to start now.

Canada's industry leaders are always ready to partner with government to move infrastructure investments forward to rebuild our economy and improve our communities. Add your voice to Building for Recovery's efforts to ensure that infrastructure investments are accelerated.

The time is now to approve infrastructure projects and rebuild Canada's economy.
