Summary of experience

Chi has extensive industry experience in securing government funding for her clients in various industries including manufacturing, agriculture, food processing, engineering, and IT. She previously worked at several international consulting companies and her diverse background in business, policies and science had enabled her to successfully secure millions of dollars in government funding on the federal, provincial and regional level.

In her current role as a Manager of the Credits & Incentives team, Chi effectively aligns a range of policy mandates and client specific objectives to secure funding in strategic areas such as: human resources, R&D, capital investment, export growth and green technology. Chi's success starts with identifying eligible projects in alignment with fitting incentive programs. Her industry expertise, commitment to clients and follow-through is what sets her apart and lead to her superior results. Her ability to leverage expertise & information, as well as her capacity to liaise with clients and government agencies have a direct impact on client's operations and bottom-line.
